The château is set in its own valley with over two and a half hectares (6 acres) of parkland bordered by the river Gardon and in the midst of wonderful, abundant wildlife with the beautiful and popular lakes of Camboux just 2km away. Close by are the wild Cévennes mountains and the rivers of the Tarn, Ardeche and Cèze with their

DESCRIPTIF

This is a rare opportunity. The château is a thriving tourism enterprise with high quality gites and yoga retreats and great potential to develop a wedding/events business, study centre etc.

This is uniquely paired with an elegant and spacious home. It offers the real possibility for a complete lifestyle change. Alternatively, it would provide a spectacular base in one of the most unspoiled but accessible areas of France for a large family or for a business.

The château is spectacular and boasts a history that can be traced back at least 400 years. It is built of golden stone from the surrounding hills and set around a charming central courtyard. In the 1890s the château was bought by a high-ranking French diplomat who renovated and updated it adding a beautiful 'Parisian' façade and designing the park with its stately plane trees which sweep down to the river.

Arriving at the property across a little bridge over the river Gardon, you enter through iron gates and approach the château via a long gravel drive lined with lavender. This opens out into a wide, gravelled area accessing the stone paved central courtyard in which there is a pretty carved stone basin into which a spring runs. From here the park and gardens stretch down to the river laid out with lawns and established trees over a hundred years old.

The main entrance doors in the beautiful 19th Century façade face the gardens and the river. You enter via sweeping stone steps into an impressive ent
