This elegant 15th-century white stone château, by the site of cricket's earliest recorded match in 1478, lies just 2 hours from Paris Charles de Gaulle Airport.

In excellent condition, the estate spans 16.2 acres of parkland featuring a double moat, working drawbridge, and turreted towers. It retains its

DESRIPTIF

This exceptional property, owned by only two families since 1799, holds a unique place in both architectural and sporting history. As the home of one of the teams that played in the first documented cricket match in 1478, the château is not only a remarkable example of medieval architecture but also a significant landmark in sporting heritage.

Nestled in a picturesque valley, this Historic Monument stands in excellent structural condition, benefiting from substantial aid to preserve its splendor for future generations. The modest Property Tax is only €2,652 p.a.

The château's original circular design, created for defense against marauding soldiers, now creates a stunning architectural feature. Surrounded by a double moat inhabited by large fish and black swans, the property is accessed via a working drawbridge. The circular layout features an inner courtyard adomed with towers, turrets, and buttresses. The elegant white walls are constructed from clunch (hard chalk), a material used since Roman times that lends the castle its timeless appearance. A south-facing terrace overlooking the moat, added in the 18th century, offers spectacular views. Historic defensive features remain visible in the arrow ports of the north tower.

The ground floor provides 198m² of living space, featuring a Napoleon III-style drawing and dining room, main reception room, two kitchens, library/study, and original chapel. Two staircases lead to the upper floors, housing six bedrooms and four l
