DESCRIPTION

Tucked into the gentle hills of the Nantes vineyards, this 17th-century manor is a living tapestry of history and enchantment. The estate unfolds across 4.17 hectares of meticulously tended parkland, where the air carries the scent of earth and blossoms, and the only soundtrack is the gentle murmur of a spring-fed pond—once a humble lavoir—fed by an eternal spring. Here, time slows, and the world feels both timeless and tenderly alive.

Nestled in the heart of the Loire-Atlantique, a region famed for its Muscadet wines and Vendée War history, this property offers the perfect blend of rural seclusion and urban convenience. Just 20km from Nantes, a vibrant city with TGV rail links to Paris and an international airport, it's an ideal base for exploring the Pays de la Loire region.A House That Wears Its History Like a Crown

Walk through its grand entrance, and you're stepping into a world where every exposed beam, every ancient fireplace, and every terracotta tile has a story to share.

The 397m² of living space is arranged across three floors, offering a symphony of rooms designed for both grandeur and intimacy. The grand salon, with its monumental fireplace, is a stage for evenings of wine and laugh...
